■ 1Q23 results in line, with some softness at industrial (ex Nitinol) businesses. SAES 1Q23 results showed some softness at industrial businesses ex Nitinol (in particular Chemicals, Packaging), partly anticipated by the weak sales trend of Jan-Feb already disclosed (+4.4% YoY and +0.7% ex ForEx). In 1Q23, sales were Eu60mn vs. Eu61mn expected, rising +1.7% YoY or -3.8% ex ForEx. Gross profit was Eu27mn with the margin up 30bps YoY to 44.3%. EBITDA was Eu11mn (18.1% margin) vs. Eu12mn expected and includes Eu2mn in one-offs related to the announced transaction with Resonetics at the Medical business; on a clean basis, the EBITDA margin was stable YoY at 23%. Net profit of Eu5mn (Eu4mn expected) vs. Eu2mn in 1Q22 includes Eu2mn of non-cash income from mark to market of financial investments. The net cash position was stable vs. FY22 at Eu64mn after a Eu7mn increase in working capital, mainly at the Medical business. The company provided the following pro-forma figures for SAES's 1Q23 perimeter ex Nitinol: sales Eu28mn (-10% YoY), EBITDA at breakeven, EBIT loss Eu3mn, net loss Eu2mn.

■ Confidence on improving trends. In 1Q23, sales at SAES Medical were up 14% (+9% organic) to Eu32mn, while the industrial perimeter ex Nitinol (SAES Industrial, SAES High Vacuum, SAES Chemicals, SAES Packaging) reported a 10% YoY decline in sales to Eu28mn. This was driven by Chemicals (-44% YoY to Eu2mn) and Packaging (-56% YoY to Eu2mn), while SAES Industrial was up 4% to Eu19mn (strong industrial SMAs), and sales of SAES High Vacuum were stable at Eu7mn (consolidation of SAES Rial compensated lower sales vs. a particularly strong 1Q22). Management expressed confidence on improving operating trends in coming months. We note exposure to defensive businesses and growing industrial SMAs at SAES industrial, the positive outlook (and exposure to fusion energy) of High Vacuum (ca. Eu40mn sales in FY24e from ca. Eu30mn in FY22), the expected improvement at Chemicals, and the slow take-up at Packaging. We think SAES's industrial perimeter has significant growth potential.

■ Estimates unchanged. Our estimates point to FY23 sales of Eu266mn (+6% YoY with SAES ex Nitinol growing ca. +4%), EBITDA of Eu64mn (before costs associated with the transaction with Resonetics) vs. Eu57mn in FY22, adj. net profit of Eu33mn.

■ Focus on saving shares conversion. Management said it was working hard to complete the extraordinary transaction on saving shares (voluntary partial tender offer on 18.5% of savings at Eu29.31 per share and 1:1 mandatory conversion into ordinary shares), with an EGM and a special meeting of savings shareholders to be held on 31 May. We think the transaction is a valuation catalyst for the stock (rationalize the capital structure, standardize the right of all shareholders, increase the free-float, EPS accretive). No additional info on the transaction with Resonetics on the Nitinol business, expected to close by year-end.

GUIDE TO FUNDAMENTAL RESEARCH

The main methods used to evaluate financial instruments and set a target price for 12 months after the investment recommendation are as follows:

- Discounted cash flow (DCF) model or similar methods such as a dividend discount model (DDM)
- Comparison with market peers, using the most appropriate methods for the individual company analysed: among the main ratios used for industrial sectors are price/ earnings (P/E), EV/EBITDA, EV/EBIT, price /sales.
- Return on capital and multiples of adjusted net book value are the main methods used for banking sector stocks, while for insurance sector stocks return on allocated capital and multiples on net book value and embedded portfolio value are used
- For the utilities sector comparisons are made between expected returns and the return on the regulatory asset base (RAB)

Some of the parameters used in evaluations, such as the risk-free rate and risk premium, are the same for all companies covered, and are updated to reflect market conditions. Currently a risk-free rate of 4.0% and a risk premium of 5.5% are being used.

Frequency of research: quarterly.

Reports on all companies listed on the S&P500 Index, most of those on the MIBEX Index and the main small caps (regular coverage) are published at least once per quarter to comment on results and important newsflow.

A draft copy of each report may be sent to the subject company for its information (without target price and/or recommendations), but unless expressly stated in the text of the report, no changes are made before it is published.
